Artist Draws Jail And His Wife Follows

The wife of a New Hope artist yesterday went to Bucks County Prison for drunken driving, seven hours after her husband was jailed on the same charge.

Doylestown Justice of the Peace B. Frank Brunner sent Paul Froelich, 64, of the New Hope Artists Colony, to jail in the morning in default of bail. In the afternoon he committed his wife, Elizabeth 62.

Doylestown police arrested Paul Froelich at 9:30 a.m. and his wife at 4:30 p.m. in the borough. Both were pronounced under the influence of alcohol by a physician.

Mrs. Froelich, on being committed declared: "If it's good enough for my husband, it's good enough for me."

Brunner held both of them for Bucks County Court.

Boy, 3, Goes For Stroll -- On The Roof

Patrolman Mike Manto and young Tommy Snyder.

Patrolman Michael Manto, Bristol Borough police, was on school traffic duty at the Jefferson Ave. and Pond St. intersection, yesterday afternoon.

"Look up there," a group of children from the Jefferson Avenue School started shouting to him.

Manto looked. There, crawling perilously close to the edge of a second - floor porch roof was a small child.

On Second - Floor Roof

The boy was Thomas Snyder, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Snyder, 404 Jefferson Ave., Bristol. He had apparently opened a bedroom window and climbed out onto the second - floor porch roof.

Manto raced to the porch, climbed onto the

5 Flee; Damage $5,000

Five persons were forced to flee their Croydon home at 10:15 a. m. today when flames destroyed the interior of the house.

Four children and a young girl were in the house at Second St. and Delaware Ave., when the fire started.

The children's mother, Mrs. Grace Ward, was not home when the fire started. She was at the Social Security office. Her husband, John, is in Lower Bucks County Hospital where he is reported to have underwent surgery yesterday.

The oldest of the four children, Carol Ann, 6, saw the flames first and was able to warn everyone else in the one-story frame house so they could escape without injury.

Members of Croydon Fire Company No 1 fought the flames for more than 20 minutes before the fire was brought under control.

$5,000 Loss

Fire Chief William Smith, Croydon, estimated the damage to the house at more than $5,000. The inside of the house was almost completely gutted and most of the furnishings were damaged or ruined.

According to Chief Smith, the fire probably started when one of the small Ward children was playing with matches in a bedroom at the back of the house.

At home when the fire started were four Ward children, Carol Ann, 6; Robert, 4; Kathleen, 3, and George, 15 months.

Board Hears Request For Road Walks

Bristol Township Board of Commissioners last night "took under advisement" a request for black top walks along Bristol - Emile Road and Newportville Roads.

The request was made by James Brett, Jr., 55 Indigo Lane, Indian Creek, Levittown. He presented a petition to the board with 198 signatures asking for the walk ways.

He suggested the walks to lead to Five Points, Levittown. Now, he said, persons walking along the roads are on the property of residents and cause damage to the lawns and bushes. Also, he said the walks would provide safe paths for people going to stores in the Five Points area.

Bullet Lodges In Hip

Bucks County Majorette, 17, Mysteriously Shot Near Home

Sandra Reese, 17, chief majorette of Pennridge High School, Perkasie, was shot in the hip at 11:15 p.m. yesterday while walking from her car to her home in Silverdale.

Miss Reese, a senior and honor student, had returned from work at a drive-in restaurant near Souderton.

Office Workers Picket New York Piers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Office workers picketed 84 New York Harbor piers today virtually shutting down the port in a struggle for union recognition. Longshoremen observed the picket lines.

The picket lines began forming just before the daily shapeup of longshoremen. The International Longshoremen's Association had said it would not cross the picket lines.

The picketing also halted longshore work in Jersey City, Newark, and Weehawken, N.J. Several ships were tied up by the work stoppage.

An operation will be performed today at Grandview Hospital, Sellersville, to remove the bullet. State Police from Quakertown sub-station are investigating the shooting.

Mother Rushes To Aid

When the bullet struck the majorette she felt as if someone had slapped her, according to her mother, Mrs. W. Albert Reese. The girl screamed and her mother rushed out.

The bullet, probably of .22 caliber, had entered her right leg. There was apparently no clue as to who shot her.

"My daughter feels and says that she doesn't have an enemy in the world and can't understand why anyone would want to harm her."

Miss Reese had parked the car in the garage, a short distance from the house.

Urged To Fire Lee

United States Puts Pressure On Rhee

SEOUL (UPI) — The United States was reported applying strong pressure on President Syngman Rhee today to fire controversial Vice President Lee Ki poong and give his enraged political opposition another crack at the job.

Rhee's entire cabinet resigned today as a result of Tuesday's bloody near-rebellion in which official figures said 115 persons were killed and 748 injured. Rhee still had not formally accepted the resignation, but a cabinet reshuffle appeared certain.

Tuesday's violent anti - government rioting was touched off originally by nation - wide resentment at the recent presidential elections in which Rhee's hand-picked candidate, Lee, defeated incumbent Vice President John M. Chang.

Rhee's political opponents said the elections were rigged and that

More Sunny Skies In Store For Bucks

Except for a chance of some showers tonight, the weather outlook is bright and cheerful.

Sunny skies are expected to predominate today and tomorrow. A high in the mid 70s is forecast for today and the mercury may climb into the 80s tomorrow afternoon. A low of 50 is expected tonight.

Yesterday's high was 66 at 3 p.m. and the overnight low of 44 was recorded at 5 a.m. today.

Few Still Fighting

Venezuela Rebel Forces Surrender

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — The main rebel forces in San Cristobal surrendered today after a 24-hour uprising and the government poured in troop reinforcements to wipe out the last small pockets of resistance.

The attempted revolution against President Pomulo Betancourt fizzled when rebel leader Jesus Maria Castro Leon failed to win the support of the army or people.

The government said Castro Leon had fled San Cristobal into the jungles of Venezuela and that all likely escape routes to neighboring Colombia appeared cut off.

Castro Leon's main lieutenants were captured. Col. Juan de Dios Moncada Vidal was taken prisoner in Rubio six miles from the border. So was Col. Francisco Lizarazo who set off the rebellion Wednesday by turning the San Cristobal garrison over to Castro Leon, a backer of ousted dictator Carlos Perez Jimenez.

Many Troops Arrive

The San Cristobal rebels surrendered to armed civilians loyal to Betancourt. Today truckloads of troops arrived in San Cristobal from the garrisons at Barquisimeto and San Antonio. Others were en route.

There were remarkably few casualties in the short-lived revolt.

Bucks Voters Go To Polls Tuesday

Horse Interest Leads In The Homestretch

By BOB REINHARDT Courier-Times Staff Writer

The horses seem to be running faster than the human candidates in the primary elections to be held in Bucks County Tuesday, from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Daylight Saving Time.

Bucks County voters will be able to express their choices for offices from local committeemen and women up to the next occupant of the White House.

Presidential Aspirants

But the county chairmen of Bucks' two political committees expect the referendum on harness racing with pari-mutuel betting to attract the most voter interest.

So far no presidential aspinants, Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon nor Democratic Senators John F. Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey, have expressed any intention of entering Pennsylvania to whip up pre-convention votes.

Nixon is the only Republican presidential candidate in the GOP primary, while there are no Democratic names on its party ballot.

Harness Racing

County Democratic Chairman John C. Mulligan, of Bristol Township, today said his organization is making no endorsements for the presidential primary and he has not heard of any county Democrats campaigning for any White House favorites.

Bucks is one of 14 Pennsylvania counties that will decide whether it would like a harness racing track, with betting windows, to be located within its boundaries. A favorable vote will not insure a track, however, as there will be only four tracks in the Commonwealth.

County Democrats, with the active leadership of former County Commissioner John T. Welsh, circulated the petitions to out the racing question on the ballot, but they gathered the names of many Republican politicians as well as Democrats.

'In Middle Of Road'

Where in the county the track would be located and who would build and operate it have not been revealed.

Executive Committee stands "in the middle of the road" on horse racing, according to County Chairman Frederick E. Ziegler.

Mulligan today would not come out flatly for racing but said he will make a statement later. He and Ziegler both agreed it will be the best attention-getter at the polls.

Many Protestant clergymen of the county have urged their congregations to vote against racing. Several ministeriums oppose it.

County voting machine custodian Malcolm Mackenzie will have the voting machines at all 158 county precincts by Monday. In addition, 23 military ballots and 22 civilian absentee ballots, a new

The traffic - snarled approach to the Burlington-Bristol Bridge was again one of the chief topics of discussion at last night's meeting of the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners.

The traffic on the Delaware River and Pennsylvania Railroad were cited as the culprits in the situation by residents and the commissioners.

William Clarke, 19 Oval Turn Lane, Oaktree Hollow, Levittown, complained that he was caught for 40 minutes in a traffic jam cause by the passage of an ore ship at the peak traffic hour Tuesday morning.

"I like the steel mill and I'm in favor of bringing industry here, but do I and thousands of others have to lose an hour's wages just so a ship can go up the river when it wants to," Clarke said.

Impossible

Commissioner William J. O'Neill, who reported he was caught in the same tie - up, said: "It is impossible to control the ships. They go when they want to. They are under federal supervision."

Clarke asked if the commissioners couldn't approach the problem

on a federal level through Congressman Willard Curtin.

Vincent Hartley, president of the board, said letters of protest would be sent to Curtin and to the river port authority.

Freight Problem

O'Neill then brought up the question of freight car shifting across the Route 413 approach at Rhom and Haas. Last month, the commissioner had raised the same question and Richard J. Bowen, was instructed to discuss the problem with PRR and Rhom and Haas officials.

Bowen reported that railroad officials said that there had to be a certain amount of switching because the railroad workers changed shifts at 4 p.m. However, the manager reported that the PRR said it would keep such shifting to a minimum.

O'Neill asked to have police officers keep a check on the number of times cars are shifted during the peak hours. He said he was caught twice in the past week on his way home from work.

Trot Man Cites Benefits Of Track

"A modern harness racing plant in Bucks County will cost seven to eight million dollars; employ well over 500 people; and have a payroll of millions of dollars which will add to the over all prosperity of the county," was part of a pro-harness racing statement made last night by Woodford Lawles, executive secretary of The Standard Breed Owners Association of the United States.

Lawles spoke to over 250 Republican Committeemen, Committee Women and workers at the Warrington Country Club.

"The issue is not," Lawles said "whether there will be Harness Racing in Pennsylvania, but 'where' in Pennsylvania. 'All of us,' he said, 'know the voters of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will support this referendum next Tuesday and we will have legalized racing in the Commonwealth.'

"It is now a matter of whether Bucks County will benefit from the establishment of a new and legitimate business within its boundaries," continued Lawles, whose Association includes the owners and breeders of practically all trotters and pacers in the United States.

Lawles said that, in addition to the new payroll created by the erection of a Harness Racing Plant, "millions of dollars in disposable income would be spent by the thousands of visitors at the many business establishments in the county."

Republican Rally To Hear Solicitor

George Abbott, solicitor for the U.S. Department of the Interior, will be guest speaker at tonight's Republican rally to be held at the Edgely Fire Hall. The rally will start at 8:30 p.m.

Abbott, originally from Nebraska and now living in Nevada, also served as chief counsel for the interior committee of the House of Representatives.

All the endorsed Republican candidates will be at the rally. Congressman Willard S. Curtin, and county Commissioners John J. Bodley and Edward B. Boyer are also expected to attend.

Haines Firm Gets Contract For Dump

The Bristol Township Board of Commissioners last night awarded a contract for operating the township dump to a firm headed by JP Joseph M. Haines, of Edgely.

Haines' firm, Beaver Construction Company, will take over operation of the dump, located on Magnolia Road, near Bristol Terrace, May 1.

The dump is now operated by Industrial Trucking Corporation, of Croydon, the firm of former township commissioner Rudolph Kraus. Both Haines and Kraus are Republicans.

Approved By Five

The switch in contracts was approved by five of the seven commissioners present at last night's meeting. The five who approved the switch are all Republicans.

Two others, Harry Fawkes, a Republican, and William J. O'Neill, a Democrat, abstained. Three other Democrats were not present at the time.

Kraus' firm has operated the dump for the past two years. He said this morning that he had asked to be relieved of the contract because it was not paying as much as he thought it should.

The dump operators collect fees from persons using the dump. The contractor keeps this fee. He is not paid by the township. Neither does he pay anything to the township.

Waive $5 Fee

The commissioners agreed to waive the $5 permit fee for repairs to curbs and sidewalks until an amendment of the ordinance can be drawn up. The amendment will reduce the fee to $1 to cover the cost of "paper work."

The action was taken on an appeal by Mrs. Mary T. Clarke, whose husband complained about the traffic conditions earlier in the meeting.

She claimed that under the original ordinance the fee was required only for new curbs and sidewalks where the engineer had to layout lines and grades.

Permits will still be required, the commissioners said, so the township can be sure the work is done properly.

Merit Salaries

The commissioners announced that fees would be returned to those who obtained permits since the first of April.

In other actions taken at last night's meeting, the commissioners:

Approved a merit salary plan for employees. This would give the manager the authority to grant merit raises.

Amended the recently passed police discipline code to prescribe a definite procedure for officers to appeal grievances.

Took "under advisement" a petition, filed by Joseph F. St. George of the Bucks County Pharmacy, for the repeal of the $15 annual vending machine tax.

Hired William Gratz, Bristol Terrace 1, as a school crossing guard for the John Fitch School, Greenbrook, Levittown.

Appointed four civilian radio dispatchers and telephone operators. They are Hazel Wilkinson, 1907 Maple Ave., Croydon, Raymond MacNeil, 54 Greenbriar Road, Goldenridge, Levittown, Edward James Roths, 1303 Nancy Drive, Croydon Acres, and Charles Cobb, 84 Ruby Lane, Red Cedar Hill, Levittown.

The commissioners also authorized the manager to negotiate a year-round contract with an exterminating firm for control of rodents in the township. Bowen said two firms had made offers running from $2,000 and $2,400 a year.

It was announced that the exterior of the municipal building will be painted soon at an estimated cost of $1,000. Commissioner Samuel U. Del'p questioned this proposal. He pointed out that the commissioners hope to have a new building ready in about a year.

Bowen, the manager, reported that the present building is in a "deplorable" condition. He said paint is needed to prevent some of the bare wood from rotting.

Heated Battle Shaping Up On Oaktree Hollow Drainage

Project Is Canceled By Twp. Board

A heated battle is shaping up on the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners over the solution of a drainage problem on Overbrook Lane, Oaktree Hollow, Levittown.

The Board of Commissioners last night by a vote of six-to-one canceled a project aimed at ending the problem. The project had been approved last summer when the Democrats held a 9 - to - 1 edge.

Six To One

Since then the Republicans have taken control of the board and the vote last night was six Republicans to cancel the project and one Democrat not to cancel. Three other Democrats were not present during this vote.

But this apparently is not the end, Commissioner Louis D. Rossi, one of the three absent Democrats and the man who had pushed through the project originally, this morning promised to renew the fight at the next meeting.

Rossi was in Lower Bucks County Hospital last night. He entered the hospital on April 10 for removal of his gall bladder. He was discharged today.

Says Two - Thirds Vote

"I don't see how they can do this. It takes a two - thirds vote to rescind a previous action, he said.

Commissioner LeRoy D. Evans, suggested dropping the project because he said it was the responsibility of private property owners.

"There are a lot of problems like this in the township, if we fix this we will have to fix them all. This could be a costly affair," Evans said.

He referred to an opinion of township solicitor, William Carlin, which stated that the township could fix the condition if it was damaging the township street. If it was not causing any damage, the opinion said, then the township could not do any work on the problem.

Underground Springs

The situation is caused by underground springs which have flooded nearly 20 homes on Overbrook Lane. It had been proposed to pipe the water to a drainage ditch nearby. Rossi estimated the cost at between $600 and $900.

The commissioners last night asked James Darrah, a representative of the engineering firm of William Spencer Erwin, if the spring water was causing any damage to the street. Darrah said it was not.

This morning Rossi, who apparently had learned of the action through his colleagues said, "How could Darrah say that. It was on his opinion that the water was causing damage that we agreed to fix the problem last year."

"He is going to have to answer that one to the full board," Rossi added.

Membership Meeting Set By Foundation

Delhaas Foundation for Higher Education will hold its regular April meeting of the entire membership this evening at 8 p.m. in the home economics suite of Delhaas High School, Mrs. Adelaide Patten, publicity director, said today.

Tim R. Fahey, Foundation president, will appoint an auditing committee and a nominating committee at the session. The latter will submit suggested candidates for directors representing the fields of education, commerce, industry and the community - at large at the September meeting of the membership.

A special meeting of the membership will convene at 7:30 p.m. in order to consider an amendment to the bylaws of the organization, which was founded in January of last year and was chartered last April.

Bristol Twp. To Help Fix Ball Fields

Little Leagues and other organized youth recreation programs will get an assist from the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners this year.

The board at its meeting last night voted to help these organizations prepare their grounds for the coming baseball season and to cut the grass periodically.

Biggest Problem

The action came on a suggestion of Commissioner Leroy Evans. He said the biggest problem of Little Leagues and other such groups is taking care of their baseball fields.

He asked if the commissioners couldn't help out by making highway equipment available.

At the suggestion of Commissioner William J. O'Neill and Township Manager Richard J. Bowen, the board agreed to ask for a release from any possible liability the township might incur before doing the work.

The commissioners left the scheduling of such work up to the discretion of the township manager. The manager will also decide what fields can be worked on.

Evans said he felt it would require rolling of the grounds in the spring and an occasional grass cutting throughout the summer.

Instead, the Snyder boy's curiosity was aroused. He tried to look down over the edge of the roof at the policeman.

Manto, an ex - basketball player from Trenton Catholic High School, putting his athletic training to use, climbed up on the roof and stopped the boy before it was too late.

By this time, the child's mother came to the second floor window to find out what all the commotion was about.

Manto returned the child to the waiting arms of his mother.

"He was supposed to be taking a nap," Mrs. Snyder said. She embraced her son and then admonished him with a smack on the posterior.

Blue Law Given Setback In Court

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A law violated religious clauses of the federal and state constitutions. Law against certain Sunday sales violates the state constitution.

Citing as an unfeasible example of the law, Alexander said that under the statute the sale of a toy rubber football to a four-year-old boy is prohibited because it is classified as a toy, while the law does not prohibit sale of the same football to a teen-ager since it is then classified as a sporting good item not specified in the law.

Alexander also ruled that the law violated religious clauses of the federal and state constitutions. Law against certain Sunday sales violates the state constitution.

Citing as an unfeasible example of the law, Alexander said that under the statute the sale of a toy rubber football to a four-year-old boy is prohibited because it is classified as a toy, while the law does not prohibit sale of the same football to a teen-ager since it is then classified as a sporting good item not specified in the law.

Alexander said the classification of items which are prohibited from sale on Sundays was "unreasonable and without any substantial relation to any object which the legislature may constitutionally seek to obtain."

The Blue Law controversy is currently before the U. S. Supreme Court to test the federal constitutionality aspects of the state statute.

An attorney for the Bargain City firm said that what is being argued before the high court is a procedural ruling on preliminary injunction proceedings before the state Supreme Court.

He said Alexander's ruling is the first case dealing with the constitutionality of the 1959 law on its merits rather than procedural.

The government announced 115 dead and 748 injured in the rioting, but private checks showed a higher death toll. Three more persons were reported to have died tonight of riot injuries and the bodies of 11 additional rioters were removed from hospitals during the day.

The 85-year-old president did not say if he would accept it but he was reported working on forming a coalition government with more liberal policies to relieve some of the heavy pressure from the United States.
